

THE GOLDEN STATE
THEATRE CIRCUIT
LEASES THE DALY

Mr. Ralph C. MacArthur, general manager of the Jefferson Theatre corporation, announces that his company has leased to the Golden State Theatre Circuit, for a period of fifteen years, the Daly City Theatre, to become effective after the performances of Sunday, June 8.

It has been decided, because of the pronounced success of the Daly City Theatre, and because of the small seating capacity, to temporarily close the theatre to make decided improvements, namely the installation of a large balcony, which will increase the seating capacity with an additional five hundred seats, making a total of over thirteen hundred seats.

In the balcony section for the greater part large and comfortable lounge seats will be installed. Smoking will be permitted only in the balcony, where an especially constructed ventilation system will be installed to eliminate the smoke without draught and prevent its becoming offensive.

There will be three rows of loges added to the down floor section for those who enjoy this added luxury, and to whom smoking is offensive.

During the interval of the closing a new and larger sound system for the talking pictures will be installed from the Western Electric Sound studios that will amply take care of the added capacity of seats and will present the full tonal qualities now demanded by critical theatregoers.

No announcement has been made as yet as to the house crew, but it is understood that Mr. R. A. McNeill, the general manager of the Golden State Theatres, will assign to this house a crew that will be thoroughly to the liking of Daly City Theatre patrons.

Mr. MacArthur has not made known any of his plans for the future, but we have been assured that whatever they are, he will be right here with us in Daly City, where he has been located for the past nine years, and where his many friends, of which he has legion, would want him to be.

CELEBRATE EIGHTEENTH
ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING

A group of friends gathered at the E. Byrne home on Bellevue avenue last Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. From there they proceeded to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. MacCarthy, of Bellevue avenue, and took them by surprise on their eighteenth wedding anniversary. They came laden with gifts and refreshments. A very pleasant evening was spent by those assembled playing cards. At 11 o'clock refreshments were served by the ladies in charge. A cake with eighteen green candles held a prominent place in the table decorations. After the refreshments the rest of the evening was spent in playing indoor games. All left for their homes wishing the host and hostess many more years of continued happiness.

Those who participated in this very pleasant evening were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shuttleworth and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. E. Byrne, Mrs. A. Eason, Mr. and Mrs. Peck and son William, Mr. and Mrs. William Bolger and sons Richard and Philip, Joseph Bolger, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. MacCarthy and sons Charles and Albert.

DISTINGUISHED SPEAKER AT PERPETUAL HELP CHURCH

Father Melley of the Order of the Holy Redeemer is visiting this week at the Parochial residence. He has charge of one of the largest arch-confraternities of Our Lady of Perpetual Help in the U. S. A., in Portland.

Next Sunday he will speak to the members of the arch-confraternity in Perpetual Help church, at 3 P. M. He is a distinguished preacher and has selected a subject which will interest all the members. He will also speak on the coming Novena, which opens Friday, June 13, and he will exhort all to attend the exercises.

The sanctuary which was completed last year will be beautifully decorated during the Novena. The special decoration of Perpetuas will be distributed the closing day as souvenirs.

CHINESE COTUMES IN GRACE
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

A delegation of Chinese children from the Chinese Presbyterian church will visit the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening to attend the 7:45 service. They will be dressed in costume. Rev. John R. Stevenson will preach on "The Land of Sinim," showing some of the Scriptural prophecies concerning this ancient people. The public is invited to this service. The church is located at Hanover and Evergreen.

INTELLIGENT USE OF FAMILY BUDGET

It has been said that never before have people spent so much money or saved so much. The seeming extravagance is only seeming. The intelligent use of the budget has emancipated many people from financial burdens. They do not ask their income where it went, they tell it where to go. By first setting aside enough for the necessities—food, clothing, shelter, operating, etc., and a definite sum for the security of savings and insurance they enjoy their recreations, indulge in their whims and contribute to their charities without a shadow of worry.

Big business today operates on a budget system. The United States government has found that its departments function better and at the same time more efficiently under a budget plan. The same methods that are being used by large corporations and our government can also be applied to the expenditure of the family income. Thousands of families who have adopted this system would not be willing to go back to the old haphazard way. But there are still too many folks trying to stretch their incomes, and it can't be done. Unfortunately we can't spend the same money twice or three times—if we could, there would be no need of a family budget. We can't "have our cake and eat it too."

A family budget is an estimate of the family income and expenditure for a given ensuing period, a week, a month or a year, with proposals for maintaining a proper balance between the various types of expenditure. It simply puts the reverse English on expenditures. Instead of spending first and wondering where the family income went, you list what you are going to spend and how you are going to spend it in advance and then abide by your plan.

The ideal family budget is one that is worked out by the particular family that is to use it. We all differ somewhat in our ideas of needs and our luxuries. A standardized budget does not allow for personal tastes.

We urge every reader to draw up a family budget—make the family income go round. Let the whole family help in making up the budget, and keep track of all expenditures in every division. Make it a sort of family game, and you will find it the most successful and prosperous game you ever played.

The ant worked without play—the grasshopper played without work. One sacrificed the comforts of life in a miserly way, and the other came to grief because he did not save and plan for the winter that was sure to come. They should both have been on a budget. We are told to go to the ant, to learn of his ways, and be wise. Many have done so, and even wiser than the ant, they have also taken a lesson from the grasshopper (who after all did have a wonderful time—while it lasted.) There is a sense of play in most of us which should find a normal outlet, and not be suppressed by money worries. The budget takes into consideration our need for recreation, and anyone who faithfully adheres to the budget that is best suited to his needs will have the greatest freedom to really enjoy life.

In order to formulate your family budget, turn to Page 6 of this paper, where you will find many helpful ideas on family budgeting.

Do not fail to observe the names of the business and professional men appended to the bottom of this page. It is through their loyalty to your town, and their town, that so good a program has been made possible to appear this week in the Daly City Record.

OFFICERS INSTALLED BY VISITACION VALLEY P. T. A.

The members of Visitacion Valley P. T. A. held their installation of officers on Tuesday, June 5, at the school. Mrs. Bartlett, of South San Francisco, acted as installing officer, and Mrs. L. Landini, also of the district board, gave a very fine talk on P. T. A. work in general. Mrs. Lillian Fletcher, president of the General Pershing P. T. A., and sponsor of the Visitacion Valley P. T. A., gave a full report of the state convention, bringing to them a splendid description of the many inspiring and educational addresses, and likening the Riverside gathering more to an old-fashioned teachers' institute, with its classes, its lectures, its programs and its fun, than a regular convention. For it is through the entire coming year that the local represented by her will receive the benefit that the convention has been to her and her association. Mrs. Fletcher then spoke on her work of the coming year as chairman of the care of handicapped children, and of the Daly City summer round-up of pre-school children.

After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed by all.

The June Bride

MERCHANTS HAVE SPLENDID SESSION

There was an unusually large attendance at the meeting of the Daly City Merchants' Association at the auditorium of the City Hall last Wednesday night.

The first thing that occupied the attention of the officers and members was the adjustment and payment of the bills incurred by the picnic committee, the sum total of which was found to be $145.90. Although this weakened the treasury somewhat, it was offset to considerable extent by the collection of $47.00 membership dues for the evening. This seemed to make everybody happy, and coupled with the great satisfaction over the success of the annual picnic, and the anticipation of greater things to come in the line of club activities, the enthusiasm was great and the meeting most interesting. Sixty men banded together and standing as one man can do things. There will be one hundred members before the year is out at the present rate of growth. A number of new names were added to the list at the meeting.

President Andrew Vireno thanked the members of the picnic committees and others for their good work in making the picnic a grand success, and the association voted to send a letter to the State Traffic Bureau thanking them for the detail of traffic officers for the parade, and commending Officer Otto Schram for the efficient manner in which he conducted it, through Daly City and to the picnic grounds, without delay and with safety.

Vote of thanks was also given to A. L. Stockton, Mayor H. H. Smith and A. M. Harrison for the donation of the use of trucks and conveyances from Daly City to the picnic grounds.

A lengthy discussion was had concerning the license ordinance now pending before the City Council, and it was decided that the committee on licenses should appear before the City Council at its next meeting and urge the passage of the proposed ordinance.

Complaint was made by members in the building line that there is no printed building and sanitary laws or ordinances for the City of Daly City, and asking that such ordinance be printed and distributed as called for.

Complaint was also made that garbage was being stored in barrels without covers and in boxes, etc., instead of metal cans with covers, and suggesting that an ordinance should be passed covering the sanitary conditions of Daly City.

A letter was read from the State Board of Works, Division of Highways, in regard to the widening of Mission street at Daly City.

WELL BABY CLINIC

The Parent-Teachers' Association of Daly City urge all mothers having children ready to enter school this fall to take advantage of the free physical examination sponsored by them, on Thursday, June 12, commencing at 9:30 A. M. Dr. Henderson, who so ably conducts the baby clinic, and Mrs. Emily Lohr, school nurse, will conduct the clinic and advise mothers of any defect, so correction may be made before they enter school this fall.

SURPRISE PARTY ON BIRTHDAY

Friends gave Mrs. A. Michelsen a surprise party at the Michelson home, on Woodrow street, last Saturday evening. Mrs. Michelsen was the recipient of many lovely gifts. At midnight a Dutch supper was served. Those who enjoyed this pleasant evening were Mr. and Mrs. H. Bisler, Miss Bisler, Mr. and Mrs. P. Fahey, Mr. and Mrs. C. Keegan, Mr. and Mrs. E. Kubrich and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. Michelsen.

WILL BEGIN WORK ON SCENIC ROAD

The contract for the first six-mile link of the tri-counties scenic highway on the coastside, to cost $108,000, was signed by Supervisors Manuel Francis of Half Moon Bay and Andrew Gallagher of San Francisco at a meeting of Joint Highway District No. 9 in San Francisco last Tuesday. A. J. and Jesse L. Fairbanks of South Francisco, awarded the contract, affixed their signatures. The first stretch will be around Pedro mountain, eliminating the grade.

It was also announced at Tuesday's meeting that papers will be ready in the next few days for a condemnation suit to be filed in Redwood City against the Ocean Shore railroad, along whose right of way the road will run.

VETERAN FIREMEN'S
PICNIC A SUCCESS

A splendid crowd turned out to enjoy the fourth annual family picnic of the Veteran Firemen given at "Ye Old Trout Farm," Stevens Creek, last Sunday.

Dancing, swimming, barn yard golf and races were greatly enjoyed by all who participated, as was the choral singing near the dance pavilion.

Late arrivals found parking for automobiles difficult and also found a scarcity of tables and benches. The congenial firemen worked diligently to supply the demand for their mellow coffee. They are to be complimented on their fine culinary ability. The well chosen lunch baskets lack something of flavor without this famous beverage.

The members of the committee in charge were:

Chairman of the day, Councilman A. J. Bodien.

Music—Victor Savelly.

Refreshments—Al Green and John Osion.

Three cheers for the "K. P."

Races—Bodien, Cuneo, Perada, Natusch, Chesney, Hanson.

Transportation—Vireno, Paul Selmi, Wickensham.

Publicity—Ford, Schmidt, Schenck.

Dancing—Ed. Heim, J. Ferro, Forcell, Fonseca, Savelly.

Prizes—Lombard, Regan, Twisten, Goldkuhl, Foppiano, Verbrugge.

Reception—Passafiume, O'Connor, Hilton, Leahy, Shaw, A. Selmi, Peterson, Sundermann, Bigazzi, Rickman.

All who attended this picnic had a most enjoyable day with the large Daly City family.

The Veterans' Association wish to thank every one who helped in any way to make this affair the tremendous success it was.

GENERAL PERSHING P. T. A.
THANKFUL FOR SERVICE

Editor Daly City Record:
The officers and members of General Pershing Parent-Teachers' Association heartily appreciate the publicity given their association through your columns. Due to your kind co-operation our publicity album won second place in the district, surpassed only by one of the oldest associations, that of Calvin of Burlingame. Your ready co-operation lends encouragement to those who will carry on in the new term.

Respectfully,
MRS. LILLIAN FLETCHER,
President.

VETERAN TEACHER PASSES

Miss Maria E. Fairchild, aged 74, teacher in the San Francisco schools for nearly half a century, died in Burlingame Monday. Miss Fairchild, who is survived by two sisters, Mary F. Johnston of Burlingame, and Florence Gibbons of Los Angeles, was the teacher of many prominent business men of San Francisco.

WESTERN PACIFIC
PRESENTS ITS CASE

Its case for Western Pacific entry into San Francisco was presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission last Tuesday by the State Railroad Commission.

A brief favoring the application for permission to build the proposed Niles-Redwood City link was forwarded to Washington by Arthur T. George, attorney for the commission.

Construction of the 39-mile connection will benefit the entire state by stimulating competition between the Western Pacific and Southern Pacific, the brief urges.

San Francisco and the peninsula district will benefit particularly, it contends, especially in industrial development.

The commission is an intervener in connection with the application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity brought by the Western Pacific California Railroad Co., a subsidiary of the Western Pacific.

LOCAL NINE WINS
BY LARGE MARGIN

The Daly City Merchants received very little competition from the Morek Brush Co. nine, Sunday, to win their third straight game. The final score was 21 to 1.

"Specks" Fabin, Merchant's new pitcher, established a permanent booth for himself on the local team. His classy performance consisted of allowing only five hits and not an earned run.

Three pitchers ascended the mound for the visitors, but the Merchants treated them all alike. Smith, the starting whirler, walked across 4 runs before he quit in the initial inning. Duffy then came in from second base only to be greeted with three hits that scored five runs. He turned over the job to Watson in the fourth frame after allowing three more runs. Watson finished the slaughter with nine tallies marked against him.

The local batters garnered 17 hits for a total of 17 bases. "Mo" Plansky led the attack with a home run, single and double in five times at bat. Rettig collected three safeties in six trips to the plate.

After a poor start at the beginning of the season, George Rettig, shortstop, is displaying some classy fielding. George was charged with an error in the Merchants' initial game and has made only one boot since. If the scouts get an eye on him we will probably hear of this young man playing in faster company.

The Merchants are booked to play the Gold Bonds nine Sunday. The visitors are a fast, fighting club, according to reports.

BABY CLINIC DIRECTORS
MEET AT CHESNEY HOME

The Well Baby Clinic board of directors held their business meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Chesney on Wednesday of last week. After the business meeting the guests enjoyed an afternoon of cards. Refreshments were served by the hostess at the conclusion of the card game to the following: Mrs. J. Jordan, Mrs. Ivy Alexander, Mrs. E. Boyle, Mrs. F. McDermott, Mrs. W. L. Lewis, Mrs. R. Watson, Mrs. O. Pauw, Mrs. Wm. Sherwood, Mrs. G. Woodside and Mrs. M. Chesney.

COAST RANCHERS JAILED FOR DRY LAW VIOLATION

Alandino Mattenacci, aged 24, and Pietro Rossellini, aged 42, ranchers of Moss Beach, last Monday began serving terms of two and three months, respectively, in the county jail for violation of the prohibition act. They were sentenced by Federal Judge Frank H. Kerrigan of San Francisco. They were arrested by prohibition agents.

BOARD APPROVES
REDISTRICT PLAN
AT MONDAY MEET

The redistricting of San Mateo county so that the city of Burlingame may have a supervisor of its own was practically assured as the result of the action of the San Mateo county board of supervisors in executive session, following the regular meeting last Monday morning.

Complete redistricting of San Mateo county was agreed upon by the board of supervisors. Chairman C. V. Thompson did not attend the session, being unable to be present because of illness.

When the board had completed its executive session shortly before 3 o'clock, resolutions were adopted ordering the change.

Under the compromise agreed upon, Township 1 will extend from the San Francisco county line to the southern limits of Lomita Park. A new district to be called Township 5, will extend from Lomita Park to and including Burlingame. The Third district will remain within its present boundary, except that a portion of Burlingame will be transferred to No. 5. District 3 will remain unchanged. District 4 will include the entire coast area.

Burlingame, which will have full representation on the board of supervisors under the order relocating boundaries of supervisor districts, now being drawn up for passage by the board next Monday, must elect its candidates for the first supervisor job by the write-in method at the August primary election, it is claimed.

This was evident when it became known that the new ordinance will not go into effect until 30 days after its adoption June 9, which will be nearly three weeks later than the last day for filling nomination papers, which is June 21. Therefore it will be impossible for candidates to file with the county clerk before the time set by law expires.

Burlingame's first supervisor will take office in January, 1931.

The term of Supervisor Rosalie M. Brown of the Second District also expires this year, but nominations for supervisor of that district will not be affected by relocation of the boundaries.

Consolidation of the present Fifth and Fourth districts into one, to be known as the Fourth district, means that Supervisor C. V. Thompson, of Pescadero, chairman of the board, will automatically retire as a member of the board. Dr. Thompson is now completing his fourth term as supervisor, having been representative of the coastside for sixteen years. Dr. Thompson was bitterly opposed to redistricting, which reduces the number of coastside supervisors.

Supervisor Manuel Francis of Half Moon Bay, representative of the present Fourth district, will represent the combined coastside area until 1932, since his term does not expire for another two years.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES

Mr. and Mrs. George E. McDonald, of 44 San Pedro avenue, celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversary and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Deller, of Colma, their third anniversary, on Tuesday evening, May 7, 1930. With a few relatives and friends they motored to a local cafe, where a full course Italian dinner was served. A very enjoyable evening was spent, with music and dancing until a very late hour. With the cutting of a large anniversary cake, congratulations were extended to both couples and wishing them many more to follow as happy as the one just passed. They also received many beautiful gifts. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Du Jardin, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Boyle, Mr. Alfred Olmo, Mr. Martin Geery, of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Luderman, of San Mateo, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Deller, of Colma, Mr. and Mrs. George McDonald, Miss Gladys McDonald, and George McDonald, Jr., of Daly City.

LOCAL BOY HONORED AT U. C.

Abraham Gottfried, youngest son of Mr. Gottfried of Los Olivos avenue, had the degree of L. L. D. conferred on him at the commencement classes of the University of California with the highest honors. Abraham, who attended the Daly City grammar school, graduated from Mission high in 3 1-3 years, afterwards attending the University, which he made in 3 1-3 years, at the age of 19. Since then he has studied law and expects to come up before the state board in the near future for his final examination. Judging from his record, he has a wonderful future, and his friends wish him well. His father leaves for a trip to Europe on June 7, and expects to be gone six months.

MOTORISTS WARNED AGAINST CARELESS USE OF MATCHES

With California's long rainless season approaching, the Division of Motor Vehicles has called the attention of motorists to the increased fire hazard that will result to forests and grain fields and urged care in handling lighted cigars, cigarettes and matches.

The motorists were advised that the California Highway Patrol will enforce rigidly the provisions of the law prohibiting the throwing of lighted cigars, cigarettes and matches from moving vehicles.

Frank G. Snook, Chief of the Division, said an order to this effect would be issued to all members of the patrol.

The law defines such an act as a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment in the county jail for a maximum of six months, or both.

Attention of the motorist was drawn also to the fact that the law prohibits the use of muffler cut-outs, a source of fire hazard because of flying sparks.

The co-operation of all drivers of motor vehicles in the effort to reduce fire losses was asked.

HEALTH FAD SKEPTICS

The subject of how to live long is always of interest, which perhaps accounts for the eagerness of the average mortal to seize upon various methods which are recommended for promoting health and longevity, such as doing daily exercise to radio music and the like.

In spite of all the propaganda on the subject, however, there are many benefits of strenuous physical activity. One of these wrote a letter to the Cleveland Press, pointing out who are skeptical regarding the real that Walter Camp, famed athlete and originator of the "daily dozen," died at 65 while he, the writer, had never taken any kind of exercise to speak of and was still in excellent health, although a great-grandfather. He added that the "longest-lived people are the physically lazy but mentally alert."

Commenting on the letter, William Feather, a well-known editor, declares that several years ago he adopted a vigorous health program, including vegetarianism, cold baths and the daily dozen, with this result: "Acute indigestion led to the abandonment of vegetarianism on the doctor's orders. Another doctor recommended discontinuance of cold baths. The daily dozen are still pursued, but faith in them has been shaken by the untimely death of their inventor."

Still, we may find many who swear by the health fads and feel that their lives have been saved thereby. As the proverb has it: "What is food for some is black poison for others."

Further limitation of the size of trucks and trailers used on public highways is sought by Maryland authorities, which is no doubt well and good, as far as it goes. Even more desirable would be some means of limiting the haughty arrogance of drivers of the same.

Mile. Lena Bernstein, a French girl flyer, set a new world's solo endurance record for women by remaining in the air 35 hours and 46 minutes at Le Bourget field, Paris.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF BRIDE AND GROOM

Last Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lorenz, of Mission street, entertained a number of relatives and friends at a dinner given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Valentino, of San Francisco. Mrs. Valentino was formerly Miss Helen Lorenz. A large wedding cake, with the bride and groom, was in the center of the table. The young couple received many beautiful gifts, and many toasts were given to them by the guests. After dinner a number of young folks dropped in to spend the evening. Those at the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Valentino, Mr. and Mrs. Til Conserva, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gross, Mr. and Mrs. I. Adamis, Mr. and Mrs. George Lagomarsino, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Popino, Misses Alice Lorenz, Eleanor Conserva, Messrs. Heine and Herman Lorenz, George and Gene Lagomarsino, P. Arata and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lorenz.

GENERAL PERSHING P. T. A.

A general meeting of the General Pershing P. T. A. was held on June 3 at the school, with Mrs. L. Fletcher as the presiding officer.

Regular business was conducted and a report of the State Convention at Riverside was read by Mrs. Fletcher, delegate.

It was decided to give the children of the General Pershing school an ice cream party at the close of the school term.

The next regular meeting of the P. T. A. will be Tuesday, August 12.

After adjournment refreshments were served the members.

NOTED WRITER TO SPEAK AT CALVARY BAPTIST CHAPEL

The following are the services at Calvary Baptist Chapel, 5724 Mission street, for Sunday and Monday:

Mr. Adrian Waldo Sasha, noted Jewish writer and teacher of "The Laws of Life," will speak at both services Sunday. His sermon in the morning will be "The Wisdom of God, and the Power of Pentecost." In the evening: "How Christ Settles the Greatest Problems of This Age." Mr. Sasha has been speaking at the Chapel each evening since Wednesday night, excluding Saturday. He will give his last message Monday night, when his topic will be "The Meaning of the Cross."

He has been a writer, staff-member and editor of a Jewish newspaper for over eight years previous to his conversion to Christianity. He was converted six years ago through the reading of the New Testament. Since then he has written a book titled "The Laws of Life," in which he shows how the essence of Judaism inevitably points to Jesus as the Christ—the Messiah. Mr. Sasha has traveled extensively, was educated in Russia and has taken university work in America. He has a stirring message as to how he became a Christian and why he believes in Jesus, even though himself a Jew. His messages have proven to be interesting, convincing and instructive. The time spent in hearing him would certainly be profitable to any one.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Company No. 3 have decided to hold their whist in Company No. 3 fire house, on Westlake avenue, Friday evening, June 13, so as not to interfere with the graduations and the Crocker P. T. A., scheduled for June 12.

It is said that Austria only produces foodstuffs in a year sufficient for about two months' consumption.

DAUGHTERS PLAN SPLENDID SURPRISE FOR THEIR MOTHER

Last Saturday evening Mrs. Helena O'Connor, of Evergreen avenue, was tendered a surprise party by her daughters at their home. The home throughout was artistically decorated, the color scheme being pink and blue. The evening was spent playing whist, those winning the highest honors being Mrs. Lillian Landini, Miss Elsie Fahy and Mrs. Katherine Gross. At midnight a dainty luncheon was served by the hostesses, which was greatly enjoyed by all. The table was prettily decorated, the place cards and decorations being in keeping with the affair. In the center of the table was a huge birthday cake. Everyone had a most enjoyable evening, and one long to be remembered, especially Mrs. O'Connor, the whole affair being a complete surprise to her. Those in the party were: Mesdames Lillian Landini, Mabel Lorenz, Helena O'Connor, Anita Diamond, Katherine Gross, H. Haller, Frances Fricke, Lorraine Wall; Misses Elsie Fahy, Roberta Heagney, Frances Smith, Marge O'Connor, Alice Lorenz, Audrey Diamond, Alice Johnson, Tess O'Connor, Hazel Dell. Mrs. O'Connor was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Why I am a Candidate for County Surveyor

NO. 1—REORGANIZATION

San Mateo County has made remarkable growth and progress in the past fifteen years. In my opinion, the County's Engineering Department has not kept the pace. True, it has grown in size, but possibly, from the viewpoint of the citizen and taxpayer, its growth has been more to the advantage of the organization itself than to San Mateo County.

The County Surveyor's office should be reorganized. It should be run under the same principles that govern the administration of the Engineering Department of any large organization by the most modern and efficient methods, in the most economical manner consistent with first class work, and strictly for the benefit of the stockholders, which in the case of the County, are its citizens.

The final stages of reorganization must be accomplished through new legislation, but a very great deal can be accomplished voluntarily by the County Surveyor if he is so minded.

I pledge myself, if elected, to do all in my power to reorganize the office to fit present day conditions, and to conduct the office in the manner outlined above, for the best interests of the County and its people.

We Are Building an Institution in Radio

At the General Motors Radio Corporation we have laid the foundation of a permanent, progressive business—and on this groundwork we are already raising the structure of an institution with ideals and ambitions quite different from those the radio industry has known. The men who represent us to you—our dealers—have met requirements which establish them, beyond doubt, as trustworthy, reputable merchants. Our product is distinctive in its design, in its appearance and in the way it performs. It reflects, we believe, the extraordinary value that our resources and our experience and our manufacturing abilities help us to create. We want you to prefer this product... and to base your preference as much on your confidence in the dealer who sells it and in us who make it, as on your appraisal of the product itself.

The General Motors Radio Corporation has entered the radio field providing more for you as a radio buyer than had previously been offered. Some of the ablest engineers in the radio industry have designed a chassis capable of truly exceptional performance. The Tone Selector gives you actual mastery of tone, with the turn of a knob. General Motors' vast experience in precision methods has created for you, at a moderate price, a product of exceptionally high quality—and one that is dependable and lasting.

The same consideration for the buyer is evident in our policy regarding cabinets. In appearance, the models of the new General Motors Radio are admirable adaptations of authentic period furniture. And in order that you may consider them as permanent possessions—as you would any example of fine cabinetwork—we shall design any future chassis or speaker so that it may be installed in these present cabinets, and you can always enjoy the latest thing in radio at the lowest possible cost.

We have developed these fine instruments... established a reputable, responsible organization of exclusive dealers... instituted national service... pledged ourselves to progressive manufacturing policies and conservative business principles—all, that you may find in radio the same assurance of value, of permanence and of fair-dealing that "Product of General Motors" has come to mean in other fields.

We ask you to judge the sincerity of our purpose and the value of our product by calling on the authorized General Motors Radio dealer in your community. His name appears below.

YOUNG WOMAN FIVE HOURS
UNDER WRECKED AUTO

Miss Helen Evans, aged 24, of 1015 Ellis street, San Francisco, suffering a broken pelvis and a broken left leg, lay under the wreckage of an automobile at a remote point on Hillside boulevard, Lawndale, from 2 o'clock Monday morning until 7 o'clock, while G. L. Craig, aged 30, driver of the car, slept nearby, according to the report of Constable S. A. Landini, Colma, who jailed Craig and sent the young woman to the South San Francisco hospital. Her condition is reported serious.

Craig, an interior decorator, who lives at 3308 Mission street, first gave the name of Jerry Case, said the constable. Confronted with letters taken from his pockets, Craig, who escaped injury in the wreck, later admitted his identity and was locked up at Daly City on a charge of reckless driving.

The car had fallen backwards and rolled over several times, after having been driven 40 feet up a steep bank beside the boulevard, said Landini.

A SPLENDID RECITAL

Daly City was well represented at a concert and recital given Thursday evening May 29, at 8 o'clock, in Grace Trinity Center, 23rd and Capp streets, in San Francisco, under the direction of T. Eugene Goudey: Soprano solos, "Annie Laurie" and "The House by the Side of the Road," sung by Mrs. I. R. Bennett; alto solo, "O Solo Mio" (in Italian), Master Albert E. Chestermann; alto solos, "When Twilight Comes," "God Touched the Rose," Master Albert E. Chestermann.

PEANUT AND POPCORN
VENDOR MEETS DISASTER

Harry Orchontis, owner and driver of that horse drawn vehicle so familiar a sight and welcomed by the children on Sundays, met with a serious accident, a real disaster, last Sunday about noontime. About to cross Mission street, near Evergreen avenue, just above Rice street, the wagon was hit by a Market Street Railway car. The rear of the wagon was badly damaged and woe to the peanuts, popcorn and such wares, not to mention the collected nickels and dimes, which were scattered helter skelter in every direction. Popcorn was tracked blocks away by machine tires. Harry was taken to the South San Francisco hospital, where it was learned he had a badly damaged left leg. There was but one witness of the accident which attracted so much notice from motorists.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Geldhof, of San Diego avenue, gave a pajama party on May 24 at their home on San Diego avenue, the home being prettily decorated for the occasion in gold and blue. The guests enjoyed an evening of singing and dancing. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The guests were Mrs. Frank Grant, Mrs. C. Grant, Miss Olive George, of New York, Miss Evelyn Ferrara, Delbert Kelly.

Carey Whittington, of Philadelphia, teaches canaries to sing by allowing them to listen to flute solos on a phonograph.

SURPRISE SHOWER FOR
MISS ROSE PARMISANO

Miss Rose Parmisano, of Evergreen avenue, was the guest of honor at a hand-painted bridal shower given in her honor by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Albert Parmisano, at her home on Irvington street. The Parmisano home was beautifully decorated in green and pink, and was a veritable bower of flowers. Sweet peas were especially prominent, for they were the table decoration.

The place cards were unusually pretty, with green open umbrellas on them and were effective when placed on the lovely pink table cover. The four brothers of the bride gave her an elegant cedar chest, in which were placed the hand-painted gifts presented to the bride-to-be by the guests. Mrs. Romiguere and Mrs. L. Green gave her a beautiful silk comforter.

Most delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and greatly enjoyed by the following guests: Mrs. Romiguere, Mrs. L. Green, Mrs. P. Bannasini, of Colma, Miss Inez Bannasini, Miss Vivian Bannasini, Miss Mary Divetto, Miss Mary Nolan, Miss Blanche Romiguere, Miss Florence Rancatore, Miss Rose Parmisano, Mrs. M. Rancatore, Mrs. Arata, Mrs. Alma Parmisano, Mrs. J. Reardon, Mrs. A. Bannasini, Mrs. Albert Parmisano.

BANKER'S BODY FOUND IN CRYSTAL SPRINGS LAKE

Crushed to death at the wheel of his automobile when it plunged down a 300-foot embankment from the Sky-line boulevard into Crystal Springs lake the body of Samuel Harris, aged 29, San Francisco bank teller, was found last Monday 60 feet below the surface of the water.

The hands of a gold watch in the pocket of the dead man pointed to 3:40 o'clock. Harris, who lived at 851 Guerrero street, San Francisco, had been missing since Thursday of last week, friends told Deputy Coroner George W. Schneider shortly after identification of the body had been completed.

Sheriff James J. McGrath, directing the work of divers, said Harris must have taken the spectacular plunge while traveling south at high speed early Sunday morning. The car was found almost against the inner wall of a huge concrete dam over which the boulevard passes.

CELEBRATES TENTH BIRTHDAY

Florence Christian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Christian, of Flournoy street, celebrated her tenth birthday Friday of last week by entertaining a group of playmates. Games and refreshments were greatly enjoyed.

The table was prettily decorated in pink and blue crepe paper, with dainty little baskets and bonbons to match. Florence received many lovely gifts. The guests were: Virginia Yow, Florence Bizzio, Florence Forgundus, Helen Surine, Emma Marshick, Alice Haynes, Loraine Airhorn, Patsy Villalon, Charles Christian, and several others.

Eight Presidents of the United States were slave-owners, Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Tyler, Polk and Taylor. Johnson and Grant had personal servants who were virtually slaves, but never sold any.

MERCHANT BATTERS
INCREASE AVERAGES

The Daly City Merchants' batters had a chance to fatten their batting averages last Sunday and most of them took advantage of the situation. "Duke" Cruchoff was the only hitter that showed a decrease.

Del Aherns continues to lead the team. His last week's average of .423 was increased to .433. Sloan and Kennedy passed Cruchoff to obtain third and fourth places. Maloney was absent from the lineup but retained second position. The team batting average is .292.

The players' percentages are:

	AB.	H.	Pct.
Aherns	30	13	.433
Maloney	28	10	.393
Sloan	22	7	.318
Kennedy	23	7	.304
Cruchoff	30	9	.300
Plansky	32	9	.281
Rettig	34	9	.265

GEORGE T. SHAW PASSES AWAY

George T. Shaw, of Chico, brother of Mrs. A. W. McLean, of Woodrow street, passed away in San Francisco on Thursday, May 29, having been seriously ill since January. He had taken an apartment in San Francisco to be near to take the Coffee and Humber treatments, but the disease was too far advanced. He leaves a widow and three sisters to mourn his loss, Mrs. John S. Robertson and Mrs. Lois Chase, of Beverly Hills, Los Angeles, and Mrs. A. McLean, of Daly City.

Women are welcoming the all-electric kitchen

Electricity heats water for 1/2 to 1/3 cent per gallon

WOMEN appreciate the cleanliness and the convenience of the all-electric kitchen. These are two reasons why almost every one of our customers today who is selecting an electric range is also selecting an automatic electric water heater.

Heating water with electricity is practical. Many electric water heaters installed for P. G. and E. customers, over 10 years ago, are still supplying dependable hot water service.

Another reason why women like the automatic electric water heater is that it offers flexibility in operation—

1. You may operate the heater manually—Turn the switch and heat the quantity of water desired and then turn the switch off. This is the most economical method.

2. You may turn the switch on in the morning and leave the heater operate automatically during the day and then turn the switch off for the afternoon or evening.

3. You may leave the switch on all the time and enjoy hot water 100% automatically—day and night. You'll have plenty of hot water at the turn of the faucet. Still, you will never have to watch the heater.

Automatic electric water heaters come complete with insulated storage tank. Or if you like, you can obtain the automatic heater without the tank and attach the heater to your present tank.

THE GREATEST FIRE MENACE

The arsonist is an acknowledged enemy to society. But arson can be, to a large degree, controlled by the judicial and police authorities of the nation.

A far greater menace is presented by those millions of Americans who might be termed "unconscious arsonists." All of them have not started fires. But many of them knowingly take risks that may produce conflagrations. They are careless in disposing of cigarettes and matches. They throw piles of oil-soaked rags and rubbish in corners. They allow old wiring to go unattended. They use pennies or wire for blown-out fuses. They make hit-and-miss repairs to defective electrical connections. They are careless with gasoline and other explosives found in the household.

The list of offenses could be continued for pages. Many of them are not illegal. None of these people purposely start fires. Their faults are carelessness and ignorance. Mainly because of them, thousands of lives and millions of dollars worth of property are destroyed yearly. Workers are thrown out of employment. Factories are shut down. And the result is a blot on our record of prosperity and progress.

If each citizen would resolve to do away with the every-day fire risks existing in his home, garage and place of business, the fire menace would be conquered.

RULES OF THE GAME

Many rules for the government of human conduct have been laid down, and all of them have been broken. Still, it isn't a bad idea to think about them occasionally, and if possible give the sensible ones a trial.

An exchange prints a few, attributed to Walter Johnson, famed pitcher and manager of the Washington Senators, and while they particularly apply to the game of baseball, the principles enunciated are equally applicable to the game of life in general.

Johnson says: "Play fair; be on the level. Have respect for discipline. Never alibi for failure; accept the breaks of the game as they come. Grit your teeth and bear down when things look toughest. Live cleanly. Don't criticize fellow players. Never quit."

YOUNG BRIDES NOT DUMB

Modern brides are not so dumb with respect to home management as some would have us believe, according to Elizabeth Carter of the Radio Household Institute, who gives daily help talks to more than a million housewives over a nation-wide network of radio stations.

"The modern bride knows much more about the science of cooking and baking than her grandmother, despite general public opinion to the contrary," Miss Carter declares. Then she illustrates her point by a reference to one perplexing problem of the past—how to make a cake rise and stay that way. Here science has come to the aid of the anxious cake baker by providing special flours, which take the guess-work out of her efforts, and incidentally saves the digestion of her husband. With ordinary flour it is only a matter of extremely good luck when a cake comes out just right.

This is only one of the many ways in which scientific research has simplified the problems of the housewife. Domestic science is one of the important studies in the modern school. All of the newest cooking discoveries are placed in the hands of educational institutions by world-known authorities, so that the modern bride may have the benefit of years of experience in these matters, which those of former generations had no means of obtaining.

DOCTOR PRAISES PRESS

In the opinion of Dr. Bloodgood, eminent cancer specialist of Johns Hopkins University, the newspapers of the country are performing a splendid public service through the publication of health information.

He declares that due to the spread of sound information concerning the teeth, excessive use of stimulants and tobacco, 70 per cent of the patients threatened with cancer now seek medical aid in time to save themselves from actual infection. Before the newspapers aided in disseminating health information, less than 3 per cent sought medical aid in time.

The old idea that a doctor should not give out information to the press, because of an ancient code of ethics, was criticised by Dr. Bloodgood, who believes that the public should be told in plain language whatever of benefit the medical man has to tell. Stressing the importance of attention to the teeth, the doctor said: "Let the press continue its work. Let it advise every man and woman over 40 to have their teeth X-rayed twice a year. Bad teeth are the most common cause of breakdown."

Through preventive measures the span of human life has been materially lengthened during the past few years and it is gratifying to newspaper men to have the commendation of such a high authority for their part in bringing about this important result.

TRAINS LOOP NO MORE

For many years the famous "Georgetown Loop" on the Colorado and Southern Railroad, near Denver, gave passengers a thrill while passing over it. In order to reach the sharp ascent of a canyon, the track was built in the form of a spiral, whereby it circled and looped itself, one circle of the loop passing over the other.

At the time it was built it was considered one of the notable railroad engineering projects of the day. It was known and crossed over by thousands of travelers, while pictures of the structure were seen in many school textbooks. But the automobiles and busses, with improved mountain roads in that section, so curtailed its traffic as to make this branch of the railroad unprofitable to operate, and the Colorado Public Service Commission permitted its abandonment.

Thus passed from useful service one of the most picturesque bits of railroad construction in the United States. It fulfilled its purpose well in its day, but, like many other cunning works of man, it had to give way to more modern methods and devices.

PLANTING BY THE MOON

Sowing, reaping, butchering, shearing and other farm activities are regulated by many according to the "light" or "dark" of the moon. Such practices are foolish and only relics of the Dark Ages, according to the Department of Agriculture.

Farming according to the moon has no support from any scientific point of view, as the moon has no influence on animals, the soil, or the weather, though many old sayings have led people into superstitious beliefs regarding it. In France, before the revolution, there was a law forbidding the cutting of trees between the new moon and the full moon.

Like many other fallacies which have gained wide currency among various people, these fanciful ideas are giving way before the investigations of science, but ages must yet elapse, perhaps, before superstition shall be entirely eradicated from the minds of men.

LONG PUBLIC SERVICE

Of all the men who have served in Congress since the beginning of our government, Joseph G. Cannon, "Uncle Joe," of Illinois, holds the longest record, forty-six years, all of which was in the House of Representatives, although his service was not continuous.

Justin S. Morrill of Vermont had the longest continuous record in Congress, a little less than forty-four years, divided between House and Senate.

For total service in the Senate that of Francis E. Warren of Wyoming was the longest, more than thirty-seven years. For the longest continuous Senate record William B. Allison of Iowa achieved the distinction with more than thirty-five years of uninterrupted service to his credit.

SWINDLING THE FAT

Due to the feminine craze for slim figures, thousands of women are being swindled by vendors of alleged fat-reducing preparations, which have no value whatsoever. Put up in the form of "fat reducing chewing gum," or "fat reducing gum drops," some of these fake fat cures are quite attractive, but several of them which have been analyzed were found to contain nothing conducive to slenderness, except a drug having a slight laxative effect.

These reducing remedies are usually accompanied by instructions to eat only about half as much food as usual, to take long walks, and be sparing in the use of bread and potatoes. Following these directions would tend to secure the desired results, of course, without chewing gum or gum drops. Doctors tell us that it isn't healthy for fat people to be slim, anyway. "Be yourself" is their advice.

Congressman Underhill of Massachusetts wants to eliminate bunk from the Congressional Record. But that would cause a lot of unemployment among Washington printers.

CALIFORNIA NEWS REVIEW

Sunday closing will henceforth be compulsory with barber shops in Visalia, under terms of a new ordinance.

Workmen have started construction on the new Veterans' Memorial building in Arcata. The building will be completed by September 1.

San Jose building permits for this year have passed the $1,000,000 mark, when a permit for $363,400 for the new San Jose Community Hotel was granted.

Richard Canale and Jack Twilliger reported at Stockton that they have encountered a rich gold strike in the Little Sheep Ranch mine, Calaveras County.

Company I of the 184th Infantry, Eureka's National Guard unit, has received its new uniforms and equipment. Captain Joseph P. Basler announced recently.

Plans were completed for construction of a 170 foot jetty at the mouth of Navarro River, twenty miles south of Fort Bragg, in which 2000 cubic yards of rock will be used.

Residents of the Lone Tree School District near Oroville have voted to build a new school at a cost of $1250. Seventeen votes were cast in the election, ten favoring the project.

If plans launched by members of the San Andreas Progressive Club carry, a new $50,000 hotel will be built there in the near future. The sponsors secured pledges amounting to $25,000 during their first hour.

Plans were being completed by the Fresno city commission for construction of a five-acre lake in Roeding Park, deep enough for boating. Louis Gundelfinger has been appointed by Mayor E. S. Leymel to head a committee to study plans and cost.

The Eaglebright bill to provide for the addition of several square miles of land, including Warner Valley, to the Lassen Volcanic National Park, was approved by the House Public Lands Committee. The area involved is located near the southeast corner of the park.

P. T. Atwood, Chicago capitalist, has become the owner of the Gold Producer and the Black Spider, adjoining mines in the Keswick district, owned for many years by Edward F. Jones of Redding. Atwood takes over the two stamp mills. He plans early construction of concentration and oil flotation plants.

A bond issue of $38,800,000 for the extension of the Los Angeles aqueduct and the acquisition by the city of water rights in Mono Basin carried by a large majority. H. A. Vannerman, chief engineer of the bureau of water works and supply, said work would be started immediately the money becomes available.

With educators anticipating another drive in the State Legislature to legalize secret fraternities in California high schools, Vierling Kersey, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, declared he will fight any such move to the finish. A bill by Assemblyman Roy Bishop of Alameda to legalize high school fraternities was killed in the last Legislature.

John B. Quick, Bakersfield inventor, demonstrated his patented railroad warning signal at a recent meeting of the Fresno City Commission. The signal, which has been adopted by Bakersfield officials, works by air pumped into a bag which carries the bag above the level of the street, directly in the gaze of the oncoming motorists. The bag is lighted at night, showing red warning letters.

Work will be started by Monson Bros., San Francisco contractors, within ten days on construction of Martinez new Junior High School, for which $240,000 in bonds were recently voted. The Monson firm was the lowest of 16 bidders for the general contract. T. J. Rosenberg of Oakland was given the electrical contract, and T. J. Kennedy of Martinez received the heating award.

An adverse recommendation on the Southern Pacific Company's proposal to build two and one-half miles of line in Sacramento County, was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission. R. R. Molster, who investigated the proposal, reported that the new line, which was projected to run from Isleton to a cannery plant near by, would not be necessary, in view of existing railroad facilities.

Motorists will soon be able to use the Big Oak Flat road to Yosemite Valley, reports the California State Automobile Association. The road is now open and in good condition from Groveland to South Fork.

Engineers and firemen of the Southern Pacific Company became unofficial lookouts in the West's annual campaign against the forest fire menace. Requests were issued by company officials for trainmen to keep a sharp lookout for fires along the railroad's 9,136 miles of Pacific lines.

The proposed new bridge over the Sacramento River between Yolo and Sutter Counties has hit a new snag after attorneys for the counties failed to agree on legal phases. Neil Chalmers of Yolo County asked until June 1 to investigate purchase of bonds for the bridge.

Vernon Strong, former assistant Boy Scout executive at Spokane, Wash., has been chosen as the new executive who succeeds C. C. Keen in the Redwood council. This council includes Humboldt, Del Norte and Mendocino Counties. He will first organize Camp Hine, the annual summer camp on the Van Duzen River.

One steel and ten wooden vessels were built during January in Pacific Coast shipyards, according to a survey released by the Bureau of Navigation. Their total tonnage was 752. During the period 56 ships were turned out in American shipbuilding plants, aggregating 23,779 gross tons.

Austin Mahoney of San Joaquin County is the new president of the California Horticultural Commissioners' Association, which met at Redding recently. Mahoney succeeds A. E. Morrison of Sacramento. Eugene Kellogg of Santa Barbara is the new vice president, and Fred P. Rouillard of Fresno, secretary-treasurer.

Membership in the recently organized California Sportsmen's League has been boosted to the 400 mark with the signing of 100 new members at Turlock. Sportsmen interested in the laws governing the spearing of salmon were present from all parts of Stanislaus county. Dissatisfaction with the present salmon laws among sportsmen resulted in the organization of the league.

The annual budget of the city of Fresno has been set at $1,233,503.58 by Finance Commissioner William Glass, showing an increase of $3000 over last year's budget. It is estimated that the budget, filed with City Clerk Harry S. Foster, will mark a 3-cent increase per $100 of assessed valuation in the tax rate for the coming fiscal year. The largest item under city operating expenses is street lighting, fixed at $98,510.

Because of ease with which fishermen are getting the limit of large trout in Butte Lake in Lassen Volcanic National Park, a forest ranger has been placed on guard over the fish. Orders have been issued limiting each angler to three fish. Red Bluff fishermen declare fishermen were fined up along the shores about ten feet apart Sunday and that casting was difficult because of the large crowd.

Divers sent down by Roy Fowler, city engineer of Santa Cruz, have found that one of the big sewer outlet pipes in the ocean 2000 feet off Vue d'eau, in west Santa Cruz has broken and shifted. At the time the outlet sewer was laid, two parallel pipes were laid in the ocean. One has shifted and broken several hundred feet offshore. The old pipe will be repaired, saving about $45,000. The work will be done by divers.

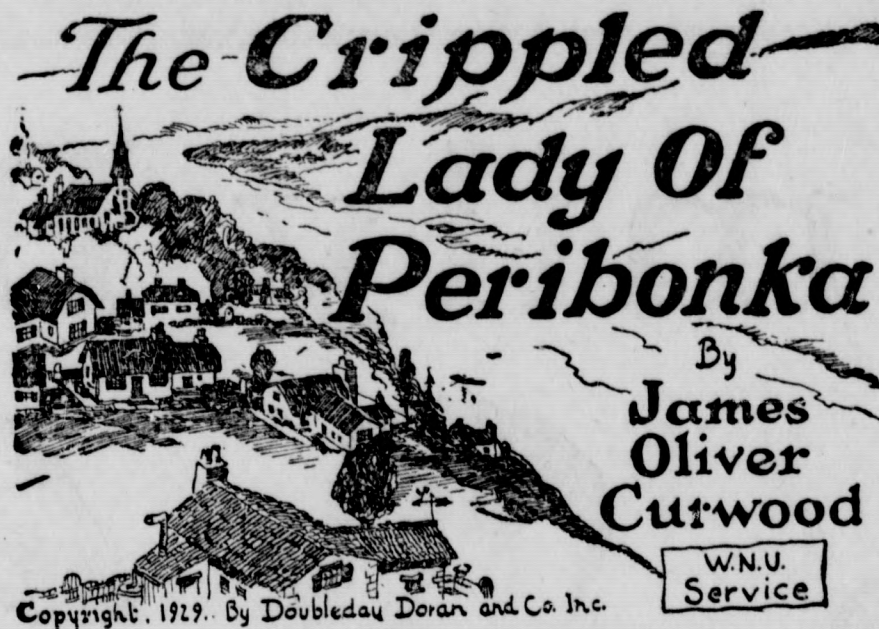

A test case to determine if irrigation projects can be forced to install fish screens at headgates to protect fish, was under way in Superior Court at Willows, attracting attention of sportsmen and irrigation project officials. N. B. Scofield, head of the State Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, testified that water diversion projects have reduced the Sacramento River salmon catch to one-fifth of what it was twenty years ago.

Mustering out of Battery E, 143d Field Artillery at Livermore, was ordered by Adjutant General R. E. Mittelstaedt. This National Guard unit will then be mustered in at Santa Barbara, along with $500,000 worth of equipment. Disbandment of the Livermore outfit was ordered because of lack of sufficient personnel. Adjutant General Mittelstaedt also ordered promotion of Private A. G. Harlander, 159th Infantry, Oakland, to second lieutenant.

In construction of its marvelous system of highways, California leads Western states in the development of that great agricultural and industrial area west of the Rocky Mountains. This is the opinion of O. S. Warden, Great Falls publisher and chairman of the Montana State Highway Commission. Warden was enthusiastic over California's highway development program, but stated that Montana was increasing its system despite the numerous seasonal and mountain handicaps. He said: "At present Montana is following an extensive development program on highways, for we realize there that through good roads and easy means of access will the state profit in advertising and industry. With these new highways, we will have new outlets in connecting the farming and mining districts of the state with the great shipping centers of the Pacific Coast, particularly San Francisco."

Anglers were meeting with fair success in Tuolumne County in Tuolumne, Clavey and the Stanislaus Rivers, and in Kennedy and Phoenix Lakes, reports the Touring Department of the National Automobile Club. Trout average about seven inches in length.

George Howden, vice principal of the Selma High School, has been named principal for the coming term by the school board. Howden will succeed J. R. McKillop, who will become high school superintendent at Monterey next year.

He went to see Carla soon afterward. He had taken a great deal of pride in the clean, white hospital he had built for the company, and now he blessed it. Derwent told him what it had meant for Carla. They had X-rayed her and had made the extraordinary discovery that there was not a broken bone in her body. But something had happened to her back, and she was paralyzed from her waist down. Temporarily, he believed. Knowing what Paul would have done under the circumstances, he had sent to Quebec and Montreal for expert assistance, to consult with the company staff.

Carla was propped up against a mass of pillows in her snowy bed when Paul arrived. Everything was white about her, except the rich darkness of her hair—the room, the bed, her lacy gown, her face. Like that, with two silky braids streaming over her shoulders, she might have been a child, one who had been a long time sick, with an exquisite, fragile beauty about her. He had not expected to find her so like a lily-petalled flower whose soul a breath might carry away.

He seated himself beside her, and she let her hand creep over the coverlet to him. It was helplessly weak. Her fingers were only a feathery pressure about his.

"Please don't scold me, Paul," she said faintly, trying to smile. "You see, I was right. If the rocks had buried you, I could never have got you out and brought you home. Could I?"

He did not answer, but held her hand so closely that a joyous little melody of content came for a moment in her throat. "I am glad. I was afraid you would be angry with me. Now I know I shall get well quickly!" It seemed difficult for them to find things to say. Paul, fighting, with the grimly set lines of an Indian in his face, was holding back what he wanted to tell her. Carla knew. A little more and she would have cried, her own weakness letting down the thing which both were valiantly making an effort to hold between them. He told her about the specialists who were on their way, and that their own staff had no doubt but that she would very soon be on her feet again. He tried to talk without a strain in his voice, yet he could feel the falseness and pretense of his effort when he wanted to take her in his arms and kiss her pale, sweet face.

Carla knew this, too. At last, when it was time for him to leave her, she said: "When are you going home?"

"I don't know," he replied. "It must be soon," she urged. "I want it that way. You must start to day—or tomorrow. Only that will make me well. Claire wants you. Please—read this—"

She gave him a crumpled yellow slip of paper. It was a telegram, crushed, as if she had been holding it a long time before he came. He smoothed it out and read the words which his wife had sent her. The message was almost identical with the one he had received, giving him the impression that Claire, in the stress of her emotion, had been able to find but a single thought for them both.

"I am so happy," it said. "Send Paul to me as quickly as you can. Only God knows how glad I am." "She has faith in me," said Carla. "She asks me to send you to her. What a privilege that is, Paul, for one woman to give another! No matter how hard I try I can never be as wonderful as Claire. The world does not hold many women like her. She loves you. She wants you. When will you go to her?"

"You said—tomorrow."

"Yes, tomorrow."

He rose, and stood looking down at her. "I will go," he said. "But some time I will come for you, Carla. May be not now, not in this life, but sometime. May I continue to dream that?" "It is not a dream," she said. "It is faith. I am giving you up for a little while, that is all. Sometime, in another life, these tests which God put upon us will return you to me."

When he looked back at her from the door she was smiling, her eyes filled with tears.

He tried to readjust himself between the time of this last visit with Carla and his departure for home. His effort was an honest one, a struggle to fit himself to certain demands which he accepted as necessary and inevitable. He was sure of himself as he returned to Claire. It was almost an exultant sureness, which left upon him no sign of spiritual or physical torment. He was possessed now by memories which blessed even as they burned. It was as if somewhere in him were a little song, a part of himself, which said: "I have a room whereunto no one enters save

I, alone. There sits a memory on a throne. There my life centers." Carla was the memory. He made no effort to turn away from the truth, or harden himself in his contemplation of it. Some one had said that memory was a paradise from which Fate could not drive one. And the room which had built itself in his heart could never be leveled or taken away from him. It was indestructible, like a soul.

Claire, in a way, became the keeper at the door. Because of her he had closed it, and because of her he would never open it except to himself. He could conceive of no one but Claire in this sacred place. A long time ago, when he was a boy, there had been in his room a picture of an angel with snowy wings and golden hair. She seemed to be floating through clouds, and he remembered that his first ideas of heaven came from this angel and that she inspired him to ask questions which his mother sometimes found difficult to answer. The picture had always remained in his mind. If he returned to him in thinking of Claire. It was impossible for him to feel resentment against his fate, or even a desire to change it, in going to her. There were occasional women at whose breasts the world found its spiritual glory. Claire, he knew, was one of them—like the angel in his room. It was he who had been the misfit in their lives, and this defect in himself he was prepared to remedy—if he could.

He read Claire's telegram many times on the way south. He tried to read between its lines. He tried to understand more clearly the change which had come over her. Derwent had told him how she had watched where the water roared out of the chasm. "Whiter than death, as if she would die unless you came out alive," he had said. And Carla: "She loves you. She wants you." And now her own words on the yellow paper in his hand, entreating him to come to her as quickly as he could. There was a strange singing in his heart and a dull grief. If she should love him—at last—like that. After years of waiting, and hoping, and of yearning for a woman to be a part of him—children—a home he had dreamed of—He folded the telegram for a last time and put it in his pocket.

He was seeing the tears in Carla's eyes.

CHAPTER XIII

Paul had told only Claire that he was on his way to her. At the station a familiar face came out of the hurrying streams of humanity to greet him. It was Jimmy Ennerdale, whose presence always gave him greater comfort than that of any other man. He had known Ennerdale for a long time, and Claire had grown up with him like a sister. Jimmy had always seemed older than Paul, with a premature grayness in his hair and a slight stoop in his thin, sensitive body.

His affection for Paul possessed the unchangeable quality of the marble out of which he was slowly and persistently chiseling fame for himself as a sculptor. He had been working in the West, and Paul had not seen him for a year. Ennerdale had grown older in that time, he thought. His face was thinner, his hair whiter over his temples, his physical tone even less robust than when he had seen him last. He had the same quick, nervous alertness about him, and it did Paul good to see the gladness in his face as they gripped hands. He knew that Claire, unable to meet him herself, had sent Jimmy in her place.

"She is like a child, waiting for you," said Ennerdale, as they rode toward his home. "I was there with mother last evening, and she asked me to meet you. She cried and laughed and is damnable happy. If you don't mind, I'd like to come over when you two have settled down, and have you tell me about this monstrous happening. May I?"

"You know you don't need an invitation," said Paul. "Come tomorrow."

Electricity in Lightning

The weather bureau says that the electricity in a single flash of lightning varies greatly. The largest amount of which the bureau has any approximate measurement was the equivalent, roughly, of 100,000 amperes for 0.01 second, or 1,000 amperes for 1 second. Probably the average discharge is of the order of one-fiftieth of this amount.

Scotland's Ancient Name

Albany was the ancient name for Scotland and is still used at the present time in poetical works, etc. It was made official in an act of a Scottish council held at Scone, in June, 1398, when the title, duke of Albany, was conferred on the brother of King Robert III, the duke at that time acting as regent for the kingdom.

Seeing Big League
BASEBALL
By BILLY EVANS
Sports writer, Big League Umpire and General Manager of the Cleveland Indians

The strategy of baseball! We hear much of it. What part does the so-called inside stuff play in the winning of pennants? It is all largely a matter of exaggeration. True, strategy plays a definite role, but it is not nearly so important as some of the experts would have you believe. Super-pitchers and timely batters form the greatest strategical combination in the world. Let me explain by going back to the days of Ty Cobb, then managing the Detroit Tigers.

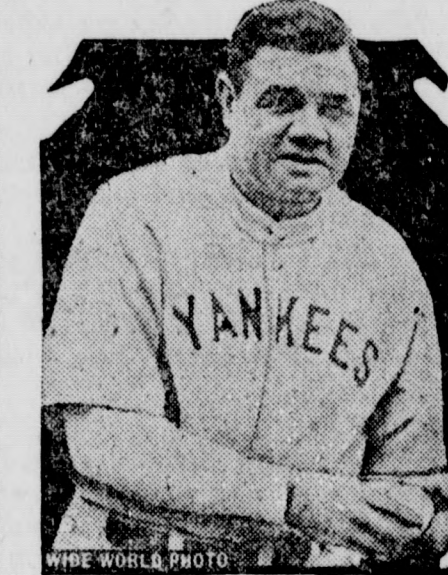

The score is a tie, there is a runner on third, one out and Babe Ruth, the original "Sultan of Swat," is at the bat. It is the last half of the ninth and a base hit or a long fly by Ruth means the ball game. Detroit is the opposing team. The Yankees and Tigers are bitter rivals. The situation is a precarious one for the Cobb men, for busting up ball games is the Babe's specialty.

The first pitch is just to Ruth's liking; he takes a terrific cut at the ball and drives a long fly that clears the right field fence but is foul by inches.

Manager Ty Cobb races in from center field. The umpires are doing a lot of gesticulating, waving their arms at Cobb in an effort to keep him from running in from the outfield and delaying the game. There is no stopping him however. He reaches the pitcher's box and is soon in heated conversation with the twirler.

"Inside stuff," says the fan, "Cobb is telling him Ruth's weakness, just where he should pitch to him." Cobb finally goes back to his position.

The next two pitches are wide of the plate and the umpire rules them balls. Then comes one to Ruth's liking and he connects for another long foul. This causes the catcher of the Detroit club and the first sacker to hasten over to the pitcher's box and engage the mound artist in torrid conversation.

"More inside stuff," says the fan, "that pitcher isn't working right on Ruth. He gave him one in his 'groove.' Looks as if it would be necessary to tell that guy where every ball should be pitched."

Ruth finally walks after getting the count to three balls and two strikes. The Tigers managed to retire the side without further scoring and won the ball game in the next inning.

"Strategy won that game for Detroit," says the fan. "Walking Ruth saved the day. If the Tigers had let the big fellow hit instead of passing him, he would have broken up the game."

"Strategy of the diamond." That feature of baseball has been stressed in fact and fiction. The inside stuff in every sport is invariably greatly overplayed, and so we hear much of the so-called strategy of the national pastime.

In the game that I have mentioned between New York and Detroit, here is what Ty Cobb probably said to his pitcher after his hasty trip from centerfield.

"Well of all the dumbells, you win the brown derby. How many times have I told you never to pitch fast and on the inside to Ruth? If you do it again it will cost you fifty bucks. Make him hit a bad ball. Nothing good to him. He can't do any harm on first base. Walk him unless you can make him bite at a bad ball."

When the Detroit catcher and first baseman went into session with the pitcher, the so-called inside stuff was very likely along these lines:

"You must have a date for this evening the way you are working; take your time, keep Ruth waiting. The more anxious you make that big guy the less liable he is to bust up the ball game." or—

"You must be a friend of Ruth's the way you are pitching to him. That's two you have slipped him right in his 'groove.' You ought to be wearing a New York uniform."

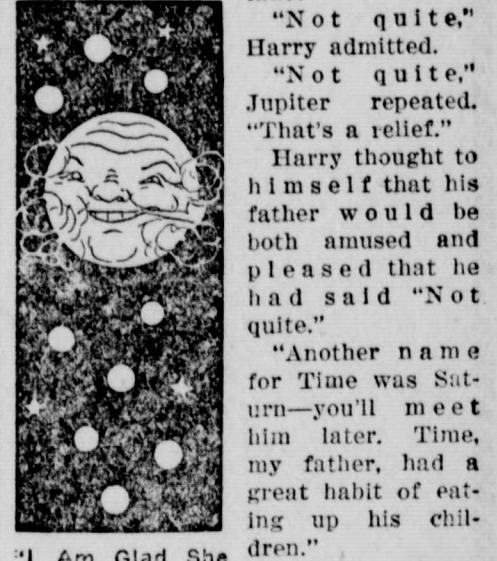

So after this when you are at a ball game and you see the catcher confer with the pitcher, or when the game is delayed by the entire infield congregating around the twirler, don't let your curiosity get the better of yourself. All that glitters is not gold. Incidentally, all the merry persiflage that is being slipped to the pitcher is not inside stuff.

JUPITER TALKS

"My father's name was Time," said Jupiter. "Is your father that important?"

"I Am Glad She Objected." Harry was thankful he had said his father was not quite so important! He also was very much amused at the calm way in which Jupiter had told such a horrible fact.

"Yes," Jupiter continued pleasantly, "Saturn was said to have eaten up his children as soon as they were born. His wife, Rhea, objected to this."

"I certainly don't blame her!" exclaimed Harry.

"I'm glad she objected," Jupiter continued, "as you'll understand readily enough when I tell you more."

"When I was born she gave him a stone all wrapped up in baby clothes so that he would think there was a baby for him to eat—strange tastes had Saturn—but while he was biting on the hard stone I was saved from him."

"It's only an old story, of course, but I like to think that I was saved in this unusual manner. I'm not telling tales out of school for Saturn really wouldn't have done such a thing. It was a myth."

"Something the same as calling Mars the god of war?" suggested Harry.

"Yes," agreed Jupiter.

"What a handsome golden-white suit Jupiter wore! He did look quite a good deal like pictures Harry had seen of the old gods."

Now and again he seemed to hide himself in the steam of a great pipe which he was smoking, and then he seemed to realize he had a visitor and would stop smoking his pipe.

"I'm different from you," Jupiter told him. It amused Harry the way so many of them spoke to him as though they were addressing the whole earth. Well, he was the representative of the earth here, just as they were of their planets.

"Do you like to hear of distances?" "Yes, but none of them astonish me any more. I've heard of such terrific distances since I started this trip that if I ever hear any one speak of mere miles again I'll be amused."

"Fine! I'm between 448,000,000 and 483,000,000 miles from the Sun. I rotate in such a straight manner that I don't have all your seasons and changes of climate."

"I had meant to say that I thought it was a fine day," Harry said, "but I'm not apt to speak of the weather. My mother is the one who does that."

"I always have spring here. Would she like that?"

"Very much, I'm sure."

"Ask her to come along with you if you ever happen to come my way again," Jupiter said politely.

"I'll give her the invitation anyway," Harry agreed.

Somehow it struck Harry that Jupiter spread out in such a way that he suggested great distances himself, and he had an idea that he had heard that Jupiter was the largest planet. It was strange how bits he had heard from time to time during his life about the planets came back to him now. He asked Jupiter about his size.

"Yes, I'm the largest of them all. Jupiter, or Jove, my name-sake, was supposed to be the most important of all the old gods."

"I almost forgot!"

"What?"

"Have you any moons?" Before Jupiter had a chance to answer Harry continued.

"I remember now. Cosmo told me you had nine. Is that right?"

"Yes."

The Family Budget

This outline divides the family budget expenditures and savings into twelve general heads. With the great variation of home and living conditions, no attempt has been made to establish either amounts or percentages for these various divisions. Each of these twelve divisions, however, is a necessary part of the well-balanced expenditure of the family income. A careful check-up of living expenses with this outline should enable any family to develop a family budget to fit their needs.

Keeping a budget will repay all the time and attention given to it. You will find it not only interesting but profitable. When kept over a period of months it provides an excellent basis for future planning.

1. FOOD—Food should consist of a balanced diet suited to the needs of the various members of the family and to the seasons of year. It will include: Meat and fish, dairy products, groceries, vegetables, bread, fruit, business man's lunches, etc.
2. SHELTER—A home should be roomy, light, airy, sanitary, comfortable and attractive; with running water, toilet and bath, lighting and heating, and refrigeration. The home should be at least 15 feet from neighboring houses. The yard should have walks, a grass plot, shrubs and flowers; and a garage for the family car. The home whether owned or rented bears such expenses as: Home Building payments, Rent, Taxes, etc.
3. OPERATING—Under this heading should come such expenditures as: Fuel, ice, laundry, telephone, water, cleaning. It should also include service equipment and supplies, decorating, paper hanging, plumbing, repair and sundry other expenditures for maintenance and upkeep.
4. CLOTHING—Wearing apparel for all members of the family should be suitable in style and comfort for the four seasons of the year. Clothes and shoes should be systematically purchased for work, dress and sport.
5. FURNISHINGS—The home furnishings should be acquired for a four-fold purpose—comfort, service, health and attractiveness. Under this heading come all house furnishings items such as rugs, carpets, furniture, curtains, drapes, beds, stoves, cooking utensils, etc.

Plan Your Own FAMILY BUDGET

In the spaces below are suggested the monthly items of expense for a family. Plan your next month's expenditures in advance. Then check result.

6. SAVINGS AND INVESTMENT—Every family should save. Saving represents security against the needs of the future. Under this head are such items as bank savings and accounts, securities, real estate, building and loan, etc.
7. RECREATION—Such as lodge and club dues, moving pictures, theatre, sports and sporting equipment, amusements, vacations, travel, music, radio, musical instruments, children's toys, etc.
8. EDUCATION AND ADVANCEMENT—Including schooling for children; newspapers, magazines and books, lectures, special vocational training such as business college, night school, correspondence courses, musical training, etc.
9. HEALTH—Including such items as must be expended for such services as medical attendance, dental services, hospital care, drug sundries, etc.
10. INSURANCE—Such as life, sickness, accident, fire, burglary and automobile insurance, etc.
11. PERSONAL EXPENSES—Incidental items of personal expense, such as jewelry, gifts, cosmetics, barber, tobacco, candy, confectionery, flowers, etc.
12. CHURCH AND BENEVOLENCES—Including church subscriptions and collections, charity, such as Red Cross, etc.

This page is presented in the interests of economy and better living. The whole family should be invited to join in discussing the family budget. Next week this space will give the essential requirements of that great American institution—The Home—in

BURLINGAME PLANS HOUSE CLEANING WEEK

Burlingame plans a "Spring house-cleaning week," from June 16 to June 23, according to announcement by Harry E. Jenkins, president of the Burlingame Chamber of Commerce.

With a slogan of "Paint up clean up and fix up" a committee, headed by Frank Burrows, director, will meet this week to lay plans for a city-wide effort.

The movement was started after a meeting of the board of directors which discussed how to beautify the city and relieve unemployment.

The public is asked to co-operate by having all repair and maintenance work done and to "paint up, clean up and fix up" in the "Spring house-cleaning week" of June 16 to 23.

The Oklahoma A. and M. College wrestling team won the national collegiate championship for the third year in succession.

TRAFFIC OFFICERS HANDED BOUQUETS

Despite the little unpleasantnesses of his calling the traffic officer receives something frequently from the public besides brickbats.

So much is gleaned from what Roy W. Youngblood, Assistant Superintendent of the California Highway Patrol, dubs his "bouquet file," containing many letters of thanks from motorists for small favors extended them by the officers in carrying out the patrol's policy of courtesy to the public.

While an irate driver writes in occasionally to complain because he was "clocked" doing 60 miles an hour, the bulk of the letters come from those who received help when they ran out of gas, were assisted in starting a balky engine, in patching or changing a tire or were otherwise helped in one of the numerous little things that is part of the traffic officer's daily grind.

"We are trying to make the public cease to fear the traffic officer and to regard him as a friend," Youngblood explained.

One letter expresses the thanks of a grateful Stanislaus county farmer for assistance offered by the night patrol in putting out a fire in his chicken house. Another tells of an officer who raced for a doctor when the baby of a stranded motorist developed convulsions. Another expresses thanks to an officer who secured help from a distant garage when a bearing went out.

One honest motorist wrote in to thank Officer Harold Waite for arresting him after he had crossed the International line from Tijuana in a state somewhat beyond mild exhilaration. He was impounded several hours until he was sober, and said he was glad of it.

The file contains a letter from Governor C. C. Young indicating that the executive is much impressed with the spirit of helpfulness exhibited by the officers towards the public. Governor Young's attention was drawn to this phase of the work recently when he noticed a motorist apparently in trouble along the roadside in Solano county. Two miles further Governor Young met Traffic Officer Leo J. Boyle and informed him of the situation.

Without knowing the identity of the governor, who was traveling in a private car, the officer thanked him for the information and, mounting his motorcycle, went at once to the assistance of the stranded motorist. The officer was surprised to find out

REDWOOD CITY GETS REFUND FROM P. G. & E.

The Railroad Commission has directed the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to refund to the city of Redwood City $900, on account of an adjustment of charges for electric energy supplied the city for street lighting purposes. The city filed a complaint with the Railroad Commission against the utility company alleging that it was entitled to a refund in the sum of $244.47, with a reasonable return upon its investment in those facilities not required to be owned by consumers under Schedule L-8 during the time this schedule has been in effect, of July 1, 1928. After hearing by Examiner W. R. Williams the Commission held that a refund of $900 is warranted in full adjustment of the city's claim. The Commission also ordered the principals to submit for the approval of the Commission an agreement providing for a transfer of facilities so that complainant's system may be supplied under conditions laid down in the schedules of the company as they now exist, or in lieu thereof an agreement mutually acceptable to both parties embodying a rate suited to the peculiar conditions in relation to the city's lighting facilities.

Another time-honored belief goes by the board, if a declaration by Dr. Wilkinson, noted Australian orthodontist, may be given credence. He says that the old idea that a heavy jaw and prominent chin denotes strength of character is not necessarily true, but it does indicate that the individual did not suck his thumb when he was a baby.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement, without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

FISH AND GAME
NOTES

By J. H. NEUSTADT

The following letters are so good they should be given publicity:

"Ever since our affiliation with the Department of Fisheries and Game we have devoted a considerable portion of our time to the boys and girls. We have felt, and still feel, that it is the youth of today, rather than with the men and women of mature age, with whom we must work to arouse a national interest in the conservation of wild life and natural resources. Men and women of mature age listen, but heed not, usually. Boys and girls, being at the impressionistic age, listen, and heed well what is told them regarding wild life and natural resources. But, let that confidence be betrayed, even in the slightest way, and—well, it is just too bad—for the conservation officer."—Mr. Rowley, secretary of the Western Association of State Game and Fish Commissioners, Washington.

The White House, Washington, D. C., January 16, 1930.

To the Fathers and Sons of Minnesota: The wish of every boy is to be a man and the regret of every man is that he is no longer a boy. The boy knows that dad has a lot of strength and wisdom that he has acquired by fending for himself out in the world; and son wishes that he had that equipment so he, too, could play a man's part. The man knows that son has a lot of fresh enthusiasm and tireless energy which youth alone may possess; and dad wishes he had that buoyancy so he could face the future with equal faith. Put son and dad together, and especially in the great outdoors, which is the natural place for men and boys to be, and they will come to know each other better, grow fonder of each other, and learn much of value from each other.—Walter H. Newton, Secretary to the President.

Information has been received that the Ida Grove chapter of the Izaak Walton League recently sponsored a very successful "Farmers' Night," at which about seventy-five sat down at a banquet which was served by the ladies of the local Presbyterian church.

After the banquet pheasants were discussed, using as a basis the scientific study put out by Oregon as to normal pheasant food for a year. Incidentally this study shows that 82 per cent of pheasants fed on weed seeds, 40 different kinds of seed being found in pheasant stomachs; this in addition to animal matter, insects, ticks, spiders, grasshoppers, beetles, potato bugs and cut worms. Cooperation between the town hunters and land owners was discussed.

South Dakota was brought up as a shining example of a pheasant state by stating that 7,000 pheasants were planted in 1912, 1913 and 1914. In 1929 the hunting season was extended to 90 days, the daily bag limit placed at 7, and it was estimated that 2,000,000 were killed, yet when the season was over pheasants seemed almost as numerous as before.

The constant warfare that has to be waged on predatory birds and animals for the protection of the more valuable species of wild life is illustrated in a report made to a Conservation Department by Inspector Hamilton, whose district includes the counties of Munroe, Wayne, Seneca, Ontario, Livingston and Yates, New York State, on the work done by the protectors of his division for the control of vermin—as these predatory birds and animals are designated.

In the ten months ending February 1 more than 2,000 of these enemies of game and song birds, ranging from rats to rattlesnakes, were killed by the protectors, who are instructed to humanely destroy such animals when found afield.

Included in the list of vermin reported by Inspector Hamilton were: 21 weasels, 11 goshawks, 1 rattle snake, 1 red fox, 106 hawks, 26 great horned owls, 26 snapping turtles, 181 predatory cats, 186 water snakes, 170 red squirrels, 36 black snakes, 68 milk snakes, 43 crows, 167 purple grackles, 594 starlings, 406 English sparrows, 1 hedgehog, 146 woodchucks, 86 kingfishers, 5 house rats.

SMALL TOWN PROGRESS

While the population drift to large cities is continuing, their productive capacity is not increasing in proportion to that of the inhabitants of small towns. Industrial leadership of the country in many cases is being transferred to the rural communities.

Such, in brief, is the conclusion arrived at by a leading economist after a nation-wide survey of industrial trends. The underlying reasons for the growing industrial importance of the small towns are stated thus:

"Distribution of electric energy to even the smallest hamlet has furnished rural communities with abundant facilities for operating industrial plants. The marked improvement in freight transportation and a result of better highways and an acceleration or railroad traffic have been other factors in the small town's forward march in industrial importance."

It is also pointed out that there are many advantages to wage-earners in this decentralization of industrial operations. Lower rents, cheaper foods and escape from city congestion all offer inducements to small town living.

A total of more than three billion dollars will be spent on public utilities construction during 1930, much of which will go toward the building up of rural communities. This vast program will also create a widespread demand for other types of construction including more homes, industrial plants, banks, theatres, churches and schools.

Intelligent co-operation of small town leaders in this new industrial movement will be of the greatest benefit to their respective communities.

ATLANTA LEADS SOUTH
AS TOLL GATE CENTER

Atlanta, Ga., is now the largest long distance telephone center and the most important switching point in the nine southwestern states of Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

At present there is an average of 4,250 originating long distance calls and 4,000 switched calls daily. During the first ten months of 1929, the long distance operators in Atlanta handled a total of 1,067,417 calls, which is an increase of 15 per cent over the same period in 1928. This is the most substantial growth experienced in several years.

The growth in Atlanta's long distance business has made it necessary to build a new system to meet the present and future demand for service. It will contain the largest toll switchboard in the south, together with an enormous quantity of other telephone equipment.

NOTICE OF TRUST UNDER DEED OF SALE

Notice is hereby given that John E. Manders and Henrietta Manders, his wife, did execute and deliver a certain deed of trust dated May 25th, 1929, to the California Pacific Title & Trust Company, a corporation, as trustee for the benefit and security of W. O. Nicolaides and Nellie L. Nicolaides, his wife, which deed of trust was recorded in the office of the County Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, on the 3rd day of July, 1929, in Volume 418 of Official Records at page 268 thereof, and that default has been made in the payment of the principal sum of interest, to-wit: The sum of Seven Thousand Eight Hundred Thirty-one Dollars and 98/100 principal and interest due on the 1st day of November, 1929, and the other obligations thereby provided to be performed by said deed of trust, and that said W. O. Nicolaides and Nellie L. Nicolaides, his wife, beneficiaries named in said deed of trust, did record in the County Recorder's office of the County of San Mateo, State of California, on the 18th day of February, 1930, in Volume 453 of Official Records at page 441 thereof, a notice of such breach of default and such cause to be sold, as required by Section 2924 of the Civil Code of the State of California, and that on the 18th day of May, 1930, the County Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, after the recording of said notice, and that thereafter said beneficiaries did make demand upon said trustee to sell the property described in said deed of trust and in accordance with the law and said deed of trust.

NOW THEREFORE, in pursuance and under the authority of said deed of trust and said notice and demand, said California Pacific Title & Trust Company, a corporation, as such trustee, does hereby give notice to all persons claiming any interest in, or lien upon, the real property herein described or any part thereof, Defendants, that the People of the State of California: County of San Mateo, State of California, or lien upon, the real property herein described or any part thereof, Defendants, are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of Albert A. Molino, plaintiff, filed with the Clerk of the above entitled Court and County, within three months after the first publication of this Summons, and to set forth what interest or lien, if any, you have in or upon that certain real property herein described, situated in the County of San Mateo, State of California, particularly described as follows:

PARCEL 2, Lots 1 and 2 of Block 11, lot 26 of Block 26, lot 4 of Block 28, and lot 15 of Block 21, of Vista Grande No. 1, as shown and designated on map entitled, "Map of Vista Grande No. 1," recorded in the County of San Mateo, State of California, in Book "C" of Original Maps, at page 35.

And you are hereby notified that, unless you so appear and answer, the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint, to-wit: That it be adjudged that the plaintiff is the owner of said property in fee simple and absolute, his title to said property be established and quieted; that the Court ascertain and determine all estates, rights, titles, interests and claims in and to said property, and every part thereof, whether the same be legal or equitable, present or future, vested or contingent, and whether the same consist of mortgages or liens of any description; that plaintiff recover his costs herein and have such other relief as may be met in the premises.

WITNESS my hand and the seal of said Court this 3rd day of April, A. D. 1930.

ELIZABETH M. KNEESE, Clerk.

MEMORANDUM

The first publication of this Summons was made in the Daly City Record newspaper of April 4, 1930.

SUMMONS TO ESTABLISH TITLE

Action No. 12326.

In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo.

Albert A. Molino, Plaintiff, vs. All persons claiming any interest in, or lien upon, the real property herein described or any part thereof, Defendants.

The People of the State of California: County of San Mateo, State of California, or lien upon, the real property herein described or any part thereof, Defendants, are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of Albert A. Molino, plaintiff, filed with the Clerk of the above entitled Court and County, within three months after the first publication of this Summons, and to set forth what interest or lien, if any, you have in or upon that certain real property herein described, situated in the County of San Mateo, State of California, particularly described as follows:

PARCEL 1, Lots 7 and 8 of Block 1, of S. P. Collins Tract, Concordia Homestead, as shown and designated on map entitled, "Map of 23 lots belonging to S. P. Collins and others," recorded in the County of San Mateo, State of California, in Book "D" of Original Maps at page 19.

PARCEL 2, Lots 1 and 2 of Block 11, lot 26 of Block 26, lot 4 of Block 28, and lot 15 of Block 21, of Vista Grande No. 1, as shown and designated on map entitled, "Map of Vista Grande No. 1," recorded in the County of San Mateo, State of California, in Book "C" of Original Maps, at page 35.

And you are hereby notified that, unless you so appear and answer, the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint, to-wit: That it be adjudged that the plaintiff is the owner of said property in fee simple and absolute, his title to said property be established and quieted; that the Court ascertain and determine all estates, rights, titles, interests and claims in and to said property, and every part thereof, whether the same be legal or equitable, present or future, vested or contingent, and whether the same consist of mortgages or liens of any description; that plaintiff recover his costs herein and have such other relief as may be met in the premises.

WITNESS my hand and the seal of said Court this 3rd day of April, A. D. 1930.

ELIZABETH M. KNEESE, Clerk.

MEMORANDUM

NOTICE OF TRUSTEES' SALE

WHEREAS, NEPHI J. BOTT and JENNIE W. BOTT, his wife, therein called parties of the first part, made, executed and delivered a certain deed of trust, bearing date November 16, 1925, to TITLE INSURANCE & GUARANTY CO., a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business in the City and County of San Francisco, party of the second part, as trustee, and to DAVE R. CAMPBELL and LELA CAMPBELL, his wife, parties of the third part, as beneficiaries, which said deed of trust was recorded in the office of the Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, in Volume 392 of Official Records, at page 1023, to secure the payment of a certain promissory note of even date with said deed of trust, in the principal sum of twenty-five hundred ($2,500.00) Dollars, made, executed and delivered by said Nephi J. Bott and Jennie W. Bott, his wife, to said Dave R. Campbell and Lela Campbell, his wife, according to the terms and conditions of said deed of trust.

WHEREAS, on the 25th day of January, 1926, said Dave Campbell and Lela Campbell, his wife, made, executed and delivered to W. E. Jefferson, surviving partner of the Greater City Lumber Co., a partnership, an assignment of said deed of trust, and all of their right, title and interest in and to the real property therein conveyed and therein described, together with the aforesaid promissory note and all moneys due on that hereafter became or would become due thereunder, which assignment was recorded in the office of said Recorder on January 28, 1926, in Volume 215 of Official Records, at page 293, and to which assignment reference is hereby expressly made for further particulars; and

WHEREAS, on the 5th day of February, 1926, said W. E. Jefferson, surviving partner of the Greater City Lumber Co., a partnership, made, executed and delivered to E. F. ELPHINSTON, executor under the will of E. Steinberg, deceased, an assignment of said deed of trust and all of its right, title and interest in and to the real property therein conveyed and therein described, together with the aforesaid promissory note and all moneys due on that hereafter became or would become due thereunder, which assignment was recorded in the office of said Recorder on February 19, 1927, in Liber 281 of Official Records, at page 293, and to which assignment reference is hereby expressly made for further particulars; and

WHEREAS, on the 2nd day of May, 1926, the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County and County of San Francisco, in the matter of the estate of Sigmund Steinberg, deceased, known as S. Steinberg, referred said proceedings No. 42875 to the records of said Court, duly and regularly made its decree of settlement of said trust and final account, and to which decree of final distribution, wherein and whereby said deed of trust and all of the right, title and interest in and to the real property therein conveyed and therein described, which had come to said estate by virtue of said assignment aforesaid, together with the aforesaid promissory note and all moneys due on that hereafter became or would become due thereunder, was set over and distributed to Helen Steinberg, sole distributee of said estate, which decree of final distribution was recorded in the office of said Recorder on the 20th day of August, 1928, in Liber 392 of Official Records, at page 5 thereof, and to which decree of final distribution reference is hereby expressly made for further particulars; and

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the installments of the principal and interest due upon said promissory note, secured by said deed of trust, and

WHEREAS, said promissory note, according to its terms, is now due and payable by the said Nephi J. Bott and Jennie W. Bott, his wife, and the said Helen Steinberg, a widow; and

WHEREAS, said present beneficiary, Helen Steinberg, on February 3, 1930, has been recorded in the office of the County of San Mateo, State of California, in Volume 451 of Official Records, at page 385 thereof, a notice of the breach of said deed of trust, and a deed of trust on the part of said Nephi J. Bott and Jennie W. Bott, his wife, and the election of said beneficiary, Helen Steinberg, to cause to be sold the real property in said deed of trust and hereinafter described, to satisfy the said indebtedness of said Nephi J. Bott and Jennie W. Bott, his wife, and said beneficiary, Helen Steinberg, has made written demand upon the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, to sell the property in said deed of trust and to satisfy the indebtedness evidenced by said promissory note and the obligation secured by said deed of trust.

NOW THEREFORE, TITLE INSURANCE & GUARANTY CO., a corporation, trustee as aforesaid, in accordance with the terms and conditions of said deed of trust, after due recordation of the aforesaid notice of breach and election to sell, and upon said written demand, as said beneficiary duly and regularly made, does hereby give notice that on Monday, the 16th day of June, 1930, at the hour of twelve o'clock noon of said day, at the entrance of the place of business of San Mateo County Title Co., 312 Webster Street, Redwood City, California, it will, as such trustee, sell to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, for cash in lawful money of the United States of America, all that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the City of Daly City, County of San Mateo, State of California, particularly bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

This will be the last public whist given this term by the Crocker P. T. A., and the committee assure all who attend a worth-while and enjoyable evening. Come, and show your loyal support, as you have in the past.

AGED RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

C. M. Jackson, of 325 Santa Barbara avenue, passed away Tuesday. He was about 85 years of age, and had been somewhat of a recluse, so that little or nothing is known regarding his relatives. The neighbors had made arrangements, with his consent, to have him removed to the Community hospital, but when it came time for him to go he rebelled. Later an effort was made to take him to the Hebrew Home on Silver avenue and Mission street, but when he arrived at the gates of the home he refused to budge from the ambulance. Three or four days later he passed away at his home. The remains were taken to Lasswell's until some information can be secured regarding arrangements for burial, the public administrator being in charge.

METHODIST CHURCH WILL OBSERVE ANNIVERSARIES

There will be two anniversaries observed at the Methodist Episcopal church, Santa Barbara avenue and Vista Grande, on Sunday. In the morning there will be Children's Day exercises at 10 o'clock in the Sunday School, with special songs and other features. The program is being worked out by Miss Dorothy Ingersoll, the superintendent, and her corps of teachers.

In the evening the service will feature the Pentecostal anniversary, the pastor preaching on the text, "The Promise of the Holy Spirit." Evening worship is at 8 o'clock. The Epworth League hour precedes, and will be in charge of Louis Hunter.

CROCKER STUDY CIRCLE MEET

The study circle of the Crocker P. T. A. held its bi-monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Ivy Alexander, of Hanover street, last Monday afternoon. Mrs. O. Pauw, study circle leader, read an article on "Child Welfare," which was then discussed by the members. After the discussion the members were busy with their needles and embroidery. At the close of a very pleasant afternoon the hostess served delicious refreshments. The guests included Mrs. E. Lohr, Mrs. S. Ellison, Mrs. M. Chesney, Mrs. F. Cook, Mrs. Swan, Mrs. O. Pauw, Mrs. F. McDermott, Mrs. E. Boyle, Mrs. J. Jordan, Mrs. S. Tompsett, Mrs. E. Bolger, Mrs. I. Alexander.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Mr. A. Marciocchi, of 44 Shakespear street, entertained friends in celebration of his birthday last Sunday night. There was plenty to eat, good music for dancing, and all had a most enjoyable evening. Those who helped Mr. Marciocchi celebrate his birthday were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Marciocchi, Mr. and Mrs. J. Carbone, Mr. and Mrs. H. Zwing, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Linde, Mr. J. Colman, Mr. J. Collins, Mrs. A. Johanson, Miss H. Johanson, Miss Lena Marciocchi, Miss Norma Marciocchi, Miss Evelyn Marciocchi, Ivo Chasseur, Eugene Cartone.

VOLUME 3 FRIDAY, JUNE 6, 1930 NUMBER 45

Published in the interests of the People of Daly City and vicinity by H. H. Smith and Employees.

Traveler: "Porter, I want to be called at 5 o'clock in the morning."

Porter: "Boss, Ah guess you all isn't acquainted with these head mode'n inventions. See dis heah button, heah? Well, when you all wants to be called, you jest pressed dat button, an' we comes an' calls you."

A milkman was recently fined for giving short measure. He was doing it on the Qt.

There's a reason why "ABERDEEN" satisfies. Try it.

Girl (admiring Ed's new tie): "Oh, what a cute tie. I wish I had a dress made out of that."

All the average girl of today knows about a needle is that a fiber one is no good for jazz records.

Babe Ruth II Mother: "You never come into the house without making an attack on that dish of doughnuts."

Tommy: "That's all right, mom; you see a home run doesn't count unless a feller hits the plate."

She: "Will you tell me if this is the third turn to the right after the left turn at the second cross roads?"

S. O. S. See Our Stuff.

Lawyer: "Then you say that this man was drunk?"

Witness: "I did not. I simply said that he sat in his car for three hours in front of an excavation, waiting for the light to turn green."

We carry a complete line of Builders' Hardware.

The whole family owns the car. That is, when the car is idle it is mother's car, when it is in use it is the children's car, and when disabled or with a tire down, it is dad's car.
